Incentives for Housing Element Compliance

Updated January 2009

Housing elements have been mandatory portions of local general plans in California since 1969. This reflects the statutory recognition that the availability of housing is a matter of statewide importance and cooperation between government and the private sector is critical to attainment of the State’s housing goals. Housing element law is the State’s primary market-based strategy to increase housing supply, affordability and choice. The law recognizes that in order for the private sector to adequately address housing needs and demand, local governments must adopt land-use plans and regulatory schemes that provide opportunities for, and do not unduly constrain, housing development.

To incentivize and reward local governments that have adopted compliant and effective housing elements, several housing, community development and infrastructure funding programs include housing element compliance as a rating and ranking or threshold requirement.

Housing element compliance is generally included as a rating and ranking criteria in programs where the primary applicants are local governments. As eligible applicants vary by program, (e.g., only non-entitlement jurisdictions eligible for State CDBG or HOME programs) not all jurisdictions are affected by these programmatic requirements.

The effect or significance of the housing element factor within the context of other competitive factors varies by program. Please refer to program specific information available for the specific criteria utilized including timing requirements.
